Northwest State Community College and Central State University
2021 – 2024

Associate of Applied Science in Agronomy to:
Bachelors of Science in Agricultural Education w/licensure at Central State University
Bachelors of Science in Agricultural Education Extension at Central State University
Bachelors of Science in Sustainable Agriculture

Established JUNE 2021

Programmatic Articulation Agreement

Northwest State Community College and Central State University; School of Agricultural Education and Food Science, Department of Agriculture and Life Sciences

Pathway from Associate of Applied Science in Agricultural Sciences

TO

Bachelors of Science Agricultural Education Licensure

Bachelors of Science Agricultural Education Extension

Bachelors of Science Sustainable Agriculture

Established Date: June 30, 2021

This pathway agreement will allow students enrolled at Northwest State Community College, pursuing an Associate of Applied Science in Agronomy to complete a Bachelor of Science in Agricultural Education Extension, Agricultural Education with a Teaching License in Agriscience, Or Bachelors of Science in Sustainable Agriculture at Central State University.

While enrolled at Northwest State Community College any student pursuing an Applied Associates of Science in Agronomy may declare candidacy to pursue a B.S in Agriculture at Central State University. To complete the transfer pathway program, students must meet the following criteria:

1. Complete the requirements of an Associates of Applied Science in Agronomy at Northwest State Community College
